The transports having on board the troops had not yet been heard of. The commandant at Tampico had received instructions from his government to declare that port embargoed on the first appearance of the hostile fleet, which, it was thought had taken place in consequence of its arrival. It is also stated that a levy by government of ten millions of dollars was to take place on all monies that shall be brought from the interior, for the purpose of clothing and paying the army, which was to be accounted for at the close of the campaign. Or-ders had been given to station 10,000 troops at Tampico, 8000 at Campeachy, and at all other places on the coast in the same proportion. The convoy with cight hundred thousand dollars which was due at Tampico on the 16th July, had not arrived—bad weather, it was supposed, had detained it.

Swearingen convicted.—A slip from the Cumberland Advo-cate office, under date of 22d inst. says:—"The trial of George Swearingen, for the murder of his own wife, in this county, on the 8th day of September last, was closed this day at 4 o'clock, r. m. after a patient and laborious session of three weeks. The jury retired to their room about ten minutes, when they returned into courtaind readered a verdict of "Guilty of Murder in the first decree".

in the National Intelligencer, will be found in ou columns of to day—and it is our purpose to publish the whole of them. They treat of the rights of the Cherokee Indians inhabiting portions of the States of Georgia and Alabama, and of the duties towards them of the State and Federal Governments. These are not partisan essays, nor addressed to the passions or interests of the day. They discuss the question, so far as we have read them, upon the high and liberal ground of universal justice, of national character, and of solemn national responsibility. Information, they will certainly impart to most readers, as to the real nature of the questions now existing between our Government and the Indian race-and conviction to many, that, in our treatment, past and present, of these dwindling tribes, we have too often used "the giant's strength."

The Cherokees .-- The second number of the Essays of Wm Penn appears to-day, and it makes known to all who will read it, the actual condition of these Indians. The Cherokees are not ignorant, wandering savages, that subsist by the chase; but quiet, civ lized, Christianized agriculturalists - who earn their bread by the sweat of their brow, and till a soil, handed down to them by their fathers, without any interruption in the possession, from time immemorial race, of whom their own newspaper, the Cherokee Phonix of the 27th ult. says, "we venture to assert, reading and writing are as common here, as among the neighboring whites, and certainly those Cherokees who have attended to their alphabet (invented by Mr. Caess) one week, write more correctly than the English scholar, who has been steadfast to his book two years."

Yet these are the "ignorant savages," whose lands are wanted for another lottery in Georgia." Ib. 22.

From the London Courier, July 9. Evasion of the coan Laws .- A curious plan has been started at Paisley, to deprive the agricultural interest of the protecting benefit of the Corn Laws. Wheat comes in very slowly, and a large propor-tion of what arrives is in bad condition, owing to the rainy weather for some time past. Many Farmers, who would bring their wheat to market, are prevented by the weather from getting it ready; whilst others are determined to keep it at home, in hopes of a better price. The market is at present in an unsettled state; we have heard of some sales of good white course. at 971 cts. and red at 95, but they cannot be considered the current prices. FLOUR.

Flour has improved a little in price and is in good demand. Canal flour sells readily at $4.7.8, some are asking $5. City Mill flour $5.1-4, at which price some of the Millers are not disposed to sell.
